Recommendation Letter

Greetings,

I am Product Owner of ABN AMRO CyberDefence Incident Response Automation pleased to recommend Aleksander Vinokurov, who has been Technical Lead/Software Architect within our product development team of 9 people and an exceptional member of our team.

I would like to highlight the outstanding qualities and contributions he consistently demonstrated during his time with us. From day one, Aleksander has proven to be proactive, energetic, and highly creative. He takes initiative naturally—anticipating challenges, identifying opportunities, and proposing thoughtful, well-structured options that help the team move forward with confidence. His ability to think beyond the obvious and bring fresh perspectives has been instrumental in driving several of our key improvements.

In addition to his strong development skills, Aleksander possesses superb, high-level knowledge and expertise across multiple technical domains, including DevOps, CI/CD, cloud infrastructure, and Kubernetes. His breadth of understanding enables him to bridge gaps between teams, connect architectural decisions with practical implementation, and contribute meaningfully to discussions well outside the traditional scope of a developer.

This versatility has made him a go-to person for complex technical questions and system-level architecture/design considerations. Aleksander is also someone the team can always rely on for a helping hand. He brings a genuine willingness to support others, whether troubleshooting an issue, unblocking a delivery, or simply sharing insights.

His patience and openness make him particularly effective in guiding junior team members, helping them develop their skills and grow their confidence. He has a unique ability to spark curiosity and encourage learning, fostering an environment where people feel safe to ask questions and push their own boundaries.

Throughout all his work, Aleksader has demonstrated a strong commitment to delivery and excellence. He consistently follows through on responsibilities, ensures high-quality results, and brings positive energy to every challenge. His reliability and dedication have made him a cornerstone of our team and someone we could always count on.

I am confident that Aleksander will bring the same level of expertise, initiative, and collaborative spirit to any future role. He will undoubtedly be a valuable asset to any organization fortunate enough to work with him.
